Workshops | Classes | Art Camps

1. Write a Novel This Summer

This is a two day weekend workshop that will prepare you to write your first novel. Based on over a decade of workshops taught through the UNB College of Extended Learning, the Maritime Writers' Workshop and the Muse Online Writers' Conference, this workshop will provide you with a step-by-step process to conceive an idea for a novel, develop that idea into a full story plot and visualize your novel scene-by-scene.

No experience is necessary. Grammar will be neither discussed nor necessary. You don't even need an idea for a novel...just the desire to write one. Classes will be held late morning to early afternoon so as not to interfere with your summertime weekend. Weather permitting, parts of this workshop may be held outside.

Instructor: Biff Mitchell (www.biffmitchell.com)

Dates: Saturday, July 21 & Sunday, July 22 from 10am until 1pm

Place: Studio4Ward, 184 Queen Street (air conditioned)

Fee: $65

Class Limit: 10

For more information or to enrol contact biff@biffmitchell.com. Back to top.

2. Free Writing Workshop for Mothers & Other Caregivers at Beaverbrook Art Gallery July 25, 10am-3pm

Caregiving requires patience, discipline, flexibility, and imagination, all attributes of an artist. Caregiving can also make art-making and creativity almost impossible to pursue. In this free one-day workshop, mothers and other caregivers will gather to explore the isolation, frustration, intimacy, and joy associated with providing care to other human beings. We'll talk about emotional labour, tour the Beaverbrook Art Gallery's permanent collection exhibitions, and work individually and collaboratively on original poems and other writing. If you are a caregiver you are invited to register and attend with the person or people for whom you provide care.

This will be led by artist-in-residence Abby Paige, writer and theatre creator; you can read about her work at abbypaige.com. Space is limited, and pre-registration is required. To register, or for more information, please contact Abby Paige directly at emailabbypaige@gmail.com or by calling 292-5307. Please note that registration is not available through the Gallery for this workshop. The workshop will be held in English, but French and Spanish speakers can be accommodated. Children are welcomed; we will care for them as we create together. There is no charge to participate, but lunch is not provided. Back to top.

3. Free One-Day Acting Workshop for Adults Living With a Disability at the Beaverbrook Art Gallery July 27, 10am-4pm

Are you an adult living with a disability who is interested in acting, art, dance, or self-expression? You are invited to a free one-day performance workshop with writer and solo performer, Abby Paige, during her artist residency at the Beaverbrook Art Gallery. Our day together will include a tour of the Beaverbrook Art Gallery's permanent collection exhibitions, followed by fun acting, movement, and improvisation exercises designed to help us create gestures, images, and stories to be shared. We will explore how our bodies inhabit and move through space and what it means to see and be seen. Regardless of your level of ability or experience, you are invited to participate in this day of collaboration, creativity, and fun.

This will be led by artist-in-residence Abby Paige, writer and theatre creator; you can read about her work at abbypaige.com. Space is limited, and pre-registration is required. To register, or for more information, please contact Abby Paige directly at emailabbypaige@gmail.com, or by calling 292-5307. Please note that registration is not available through the Gallery for this workshop.

The workshop will take place in the RBC Learning Center, located on the lower level of the Gallery's new pavilion, near the ramped entrance to Café Beaverbrook by Chess Piece Patisserie. Support workers and care-givers are also welcomed to attend. The workshop will be held in English, but French and Spanish speakers can also be accommodated.
